

THIRD D. C. INFANTRY SPEEDS TO BORDER

COURTESIES TO THE MEN

Special Dispatch to The Star.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., October 7.—When the second section of the 3d Infantry special train reached here this afternoon the infantrymen got their first real glimpse of what the "sunny south" is. This organization, which is traveling from Fort Myer, Va., in three train sections, from one to five hours apart, is bound for Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., where it is to go into camp for training.

Everything was in full bloom here and the day was as warm as a summer day in Washington. A brief stop was made, and business men and pretty girls were at the train and loaded the boys down with souvenirs of all kinds.

Many of the men got off here long enough to send picture post cards home to let the folks know they hadn't forgotten them in the grand round of entertainment which has been given them en route.

Make Hit in Louisville.

The boys wish they could have stayed in Louisville, Ky., longer. There they made a great hit. When the train arrived the whole outfit was detained and the men were sent to the Y. M. C. A. pools for bathing. The 2d Battalion, under Maj. Wallace A. McCathran, headed by the 3d Infantry Band, marched up Broadway and gave the Kentuckians a fair idea of what kind of soldiers the District can turn out after a few months of intensive training such as the infantrymen went through back at Fort Myer. Favorable comment was heard on all sides as the men were put through a snappy close-order drill.

This section is away ahead of schedule, having overtaken the first section at Louisville, Ky., and at Memphis, Tenn. At this place the third section, which started last from Washington, was longer delayed by a freight wreck, is five hours behind. Private Sheekels, the member of the train guard who fell off the first section near Hinton, W. Va., and was injured, was returned to the first section at Louisville, where the two sections met.

"Officers of this section had a near chance of doing out some extra duty south of Louisville, and some infantrymen nearly had to pay car fare south. When the time came for the train to pull out, a number of men were missing. The train was just starting as the infantrymen rode up in an automobile. The train was stopped long enough for them to get aboard. It was a close shave for them."

"Hot Foot" to Barber Shops.

The first section had a stop of three hours at Louisville, where the men were given a chance to bathe and see the town. Members of the machine gun company were afraid to take an inn with a razor en route, so as soon as the train stopped they went looking for barber shops. There were not enough to go around, so these men were unable to get shaved in time to be responsible for a delay of an hour for the rest of the section.

The boys will remember Central City, Ky., for a long time. When the train stopped there for awhile, many of the boys and girls of the town were at the station platform to greet the District soldiers. They brought good things to eat and drink, and the boys were able to participate in southern hospitality. They have found it at every place en route. Stops also were made at Paducah and Evansville, Ind. The para typhoid prophylaxis was administered today to the members of the headquarters and supply companies, the sanitary detachment and Company H, and as a result there were a few more cases of the disease.

Company G, Capt. Fawcett commanding, today relieved Company F as train guard. Lieut. Victor Dent was officer of the guard.

DISTRICT SOLDIER FINDS PLEASURE IN BORDER LIFE

Sergt. Bennett Hammond Has Benefit of Previous Experience in Following Trails.

Traveling trails and living in the outdoors is not new to First Class Sergt. Bennett Hammond of the District Signal Company. Hammond is now with the outfit on the way from Bismarck to Nogales for a temporary camp. This "non-com" is from Lewisberry, Pa., where his father, W. S. Hammond, now lives.

Young Hammond came to this city in 1904 and entered the pension office as a messenger boy. In 1907 he was made assistant messenger, and later messenger and clerk.

He got his first taste of living outdoors when he was commissioned, in 1911, by the Secretary of the Interior, as the result of a special examination, to travel over "twelve counties in Tennessee looking for pension frauds. It was there that he got to know the mountain districts with roads that were mere trails, steep in log cabins and on the ground, and get his first food the best way he could. In 1912 he returned to take charge of pension applications in the office at Washington.

He has written that he is thoroughly enjoying the life with the Signal Company, which does some of the most interesting work on the border.

GREET BRITISH PRELATES.

Episcopal Clergy Attend Reception Given by Bishop Harding.

A reception was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Bishop Harding, in the Cathedral close at Mount St. Alban, in honor of Rt. Rev. Henry Hutchinson Montgomery, general secretary of the English Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and the Lord Bishop of Worcester, England, who are house guests at Bishop Harding's residence, on their way to St. Louis to attend the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

About five hundred invitations were issued for the reception, which took place between 4 and 6 o'clock. The Episcopal clergy of Washington were invited, as well as heads of chapters and persons who are prominent in the diocese.

Bishop Montgomery and the Lord Bishop of Worcester will both preach at the cathedral today, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. Bishop Montgomery was formerly Bishop of Tasmania.

HYATTSVILLE MEN MAY LEAVE BORDER

First Maryland Company Is Scheduled to Return, Private J. E. Mills Writes.

GET TASTE OF GOAT MEAT

Company F, 1st Maryland Infantry, scheduled to return to Hyattsville, is now at Wind Mill ranch, Tex., having just taken up a new camp there, according to Sergeant James E. Mills of the command. All that the ranch consists of, says Private Mills, is a windmill, a mess hall and a mud bath. The boys have been getting a change in diet since they arrived there, having had goat several times. They also found a place to swim.

"A reconnoitering patrol," says a letter from Mills, "found a large lake about two miles from here. Half of the men are allowed to go in swimming one day and the other half the next."

"To give you an idea of about where we are, I will say that we are forty-five miles from the Gulf of Mexico. It is a lot more comfortable here than at Eagle Pass, where the cool breezes from the Gulf. This country is full of game, especially the long-eared rabbit; also an abundance of strange birds. "We dug trenches around our camp and in case of an attack we have protection. However, there is no danger of such an attack, but nevertheless, we are alert on the job. The supplies come from El Paso once a week in trucks and with them come the mail."

Camping on Historic Spot.

"This is quite a historical spot, because Madero started his revolution here in 1912 in this same mud hut. Our company is guarding a piece of land forty by sixty miles on the Rio Grande, the forty miles being on the river. Every day patrols are sent out to look the country over and to gain information. There are about 10,000 head of cattle on Indian ranch, and Windmill is a waterhole. Indian ranch has an area of 4,000 acres, and Windmill is twenty-two miles south of the ranch house at Indio."

"This place is full of game, from a wild hog to bobcats and deer. I need not mention coyotes, which howl all night long. "Goat tastes good when you are hungry, and it does not take the boys long to dispose of it. There is a cavalry detachment of twelve men stationed here with us. I must say that I never met a better bunch of men in my life. You ought to see their horses. Each horse is a beauty, and the cavalrymen certainly do love them and pet them. "Every day longer that we stay here the better I like it. The most popular sports here are swimming and pitching horseshoes. The boys in my tent certainly enjoy the funny papers and The Star. Some one sent me a box of candy with which I am very happy. I did not know I had a friend in Washington who would send me candy. It tasted good, and the men in my tent all enjoyed it. "The days are nice and cool, but at night we have to sleep under two blankets, and then wake up in the morning cold. "The round-up has started, and every day about 6 o'clock in the evening the cattle come up to our camp to graze. Texas. A lot of much of a place for a man to live in, but it produces some fine cattle."

Roster of the Company.

THIRST HITS D. C. MEN ON HOT, DUSTY MARCH

Signal Corps Members Disregard Warning to Fill Canteens and Undergo Much Suffering.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

ELGIN, Ariz., with District Signal Corps wagon train, overland from Bismarck to Nogales, October 7.—Although cautioned to fill their canteens before they left Fort Huachuca yesterday, a number of members of the District Signal Corps Company did not heed the instructions. Today they knew, many of them for the first time, what it means to have a thirst that only a drink of water will quench.

After a long march over rough and dusty roads, intensified by the horses' hoofs, which kept a cloud over the command at all times, the boys began to feel the need of water. Many had not even taken the trouble to fill their canteens before they left the last camping ground, while others, wasted it on the way. They were warned by their comrades who had seen border service before that they would need it before they had gone far, and they did. There was nothing for them to do but wait.

Many small streams were crossed on the way, but only the animals were allowed to drink there. The strict sanitary precautions taken to protect the health of the soldiers forbid their drinking any water from open streams, except where the water had been filtered and otherwise sterilized.

Have Learned Lesson Well.

These streams had not received the official O. K. of the medical department, so the men had to go without, except for small amounts that they could persuade their comrades with filled canteens to give them. It was a lesson that they will not forget.

Both men and animals showed the effects of the long, hard march over the bad roads between Fort Huachuca and this place. The wagon train which followed the command found it particularly difficult traveling, but finally reached the camp, only a short time behind the main body.

Early tomorrow morning the command will begin the last leg of its journey, being under orders to report at old Fort Crittenden. There Capt. Oliver C. Terry, commanding the organization, will receive his orders telling what part the District organization will play in the big maneuvers. The men are well seasoned and are expected to give a good account of themselves in any problem which will be given them.

Says Shoe Powders Not 2% Efficient; Foot Powder Is 100%

Chemist points out remarkable difference between a neutralizing powder applied to the foot and the common soapstone powders sprinkled in the shoes.

You cannot judge a foot powder by its appearance. The powdered sugar you eat has exactly the same appearance as certain powdered poisons that would cause instant death. Various powders for the feet look alike, but are as different as day and night, so far as medicinal value is concerned. It appears that on account of the coarseness of the common soapstone powders, advertised under various names, you are advised to sprinkle them in the shoes—NOT on the foot. Probably not 2% gets through the shoe, and the little reaches only the side of the foot. And even if all reaches the foot it can do little or nothing to prevent or overcome swelling, itching, tenderness and bad odor if it contains no ingredient to neutralize the poisons of the perspiration, which are the cause of bad odor and nearly all foot discomforts. "Faster," the fine medicated foot powder, now sold by all druggists, contains the best "Faster" medicine for the treatment of perspiration. "Faster" is sprinkled on the foot and rubbed in. This you rock every pore, so as to neutralize every particle of the poison before it can cause burning, itching, etc. "Faster" prevents all bad odors. It is a doctor's prescription that has proved 100% effective in a standard package under the trade name of "Faster". There is nothing else like "Faster" will supply you with a large sprinkler-can for 25 cents, and return the money if you are not more than satisfied. One application in the morning will give you comfort all day. Agents, E. Fongora & Co., 30 Beekman st., New York. Advertisement.

Dr. Kenner Made Army Surgeon.

Dr. Albert W. Kenner of this city has been appointed to the Medical Corps of the army and will enter the Medical School class, which begins its work October 16. The next examination of candidates for appointment to the junior grade of the Medical Corps will be held early next January.

To Tour Virginia for Suffrage.

Miss Ida M. Waters and Mrs. Florence B. Morrill of the Congressional Union will leave Washington at noon tomorrow for Richmond, Va., where they will start a series of suffrage speeches which will carry them through the state. They will be dressed in white, with yellow caps. Both are experienced speakers, and friends here expect them to do much toward putting Virginia on the map of suffrage for women.
